

ILL MANORS

Ben Drew, alias PLAN B (singer, rapper and actor), puts himself to the test by directing an urban movie set in Forrest Gate, a suburb of London. Eight stories about eight characters whose lives intertwine on the fringes of the British capital and urban society. All in seven days. The story has six of PLAN B's songs as background music which lend themselves to narration and catapult the audience into the life of the main characters at its limits. "A good premiere" can truly be said for this versatile artist, who originates from the neighborhood where the film is set. He has also presented us with a great performance as an actor, but this will be proposed at the next edition of the BIFF.

Why at the BIFF? The BIFF's home is San Salvario, our general headquarters and perhaps the most urban neighborhood of Torino. That's why we had to take advantage....
